THE HOCKING SENTINEL

LOGAN, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1895.

CAMPAIGN - - - - OF - - 1895.

The HOCKING SENTINEL, time tried and tested for more than a half century as the fearless, faithful, constant Organ of the Democratic party, continues upon the Fifty-Fourth Year of its Existence, with renewed hope and confidence and vigor in the advocacy and defense of the principles of Jefferson and Jackson and the Fathers of Democracy.

The HOCKING SENTINEL has passed through the storms of a long and faithful existence and with each year, whether in victory or defeat, has come out of the fight and come upon the front, stronger and better than before. To-day, we greet our readers with a more solid support, a large circulation, a more profitable business patronage, and a more devoted following in Good Wishes and Good Will, than in any age of its successful and progressive life.

The SENTINEL has been steered clear of party factions, individual speculations. It has not loitered in the way, has not wandered from the beaten path, has not gone astray after delusions and excitements. It has kept in the middle of the road; and the good of the general public. It has accepted its party platform and supported its party ticket. It has given encouragement in word and work and money to every deserving charity, every public enterprise and has stood by Hocking county, by Logan, our churches, our schools, our enterprises, our People as against all comers and goers.

And so, on this record of Party Fealty, of Public Service, fidelity to principle and efficiency in efforts, we enter upon the campaign and work of 1895.

The HOCKING SENTINEL is

A Democratic Newspaper.

Democratic money owns it and Democratic heads and hands will manage and edit it. It will be the champion of Logan and Hocking county in all that promises betterment in the happiness and prosperity of our people.

The Subscription Price is $1 a year in Advance.

During the year the SENTINEL will be especially interesting in the New Features it is proposed to introduce.

Arrangements have been made to secure the best writers and thinkers of the county as regular contributors.

We maintain that our town and county has equally as good talent as exists anywhere. The HOCKING SENTINEL has always made it a point to encourage our own people, and it is with pride that we can point to a list of the most distinguished writers of the county who made their first venture and won their first laurels in the pages of the SENTINEL.

Following upon this notion, the paper for the ensuing year will contain contributions of interest from known writers, from our home citizens.

Among the contributors during the year we will name some—

Col. S. S. Weldy, the longest time practicing attorney, will contribute a series of articles "Reminiscences of the Hocking County Bar," in which some of the noted trials will be discussed; character sketches of men, lawyers and litigants, will be given; as well as information concerning court affairs, instructive as well as entertaining.

Cap. Wm. M. Bowen, the oldest living of Logan borns, will contribute a series of articles, "Personal recollections," which will embrace such incidents as the "Log Cabin Campaign," "The Opening of the Canal," "The Buckeye Canoe," "The Mexican War," "The Railroad in Logan," "Country Horse-race," "The First Volunteers," and many other things which will make the old people feel young in having them told again.

Professor Rayman, Superintendent of the Logan Schools, as well as a number of other prominent educators of the county. The Old Log School House, and the Country Schoolmaster will have attention from several "Old Masters."

Postmaster Green will furnish a number of articles upon the Post-office and its relations with the people, giving hints and suggestions that will be of great advantage to the writer of a letter, as well as to all who have the dispatching of it.

Editor A. H. Wilson, will give some inside history of the Weldon murder trial, facts that were known to the Prosecuting Attorney, but did not get into the trial and have never been known to the public.

Dr. Fullen, the oldest of our physicians, the highest in professional attainments, of the most extensive practice in his day, will occasionally contribute articles from the Scrap Book of an Old Doctor, which will be amusing and instructive.

Homer L. Wright, President of the Farmers Institute, will contribute articles of practical value, showing the results of careful thought, and extensive practical experience in farm work. Other farmers and fruit growers will write upon such subjects as they understand, and upon methods regarded the best, for their own experience.

Prof. Frank Myers & Dr. Dollison, State Weather Observers, will contribute prognostications, and records of meteorological phenomena. Church affairs will be furnished by ministers; social events, and current local news, by reliable and capable reporters.

The amusing incidents in politics, the noted politicians, the mercantile business, its ups and downs, old time customs, work and frolic, will have attention from persons who know what they are writing about.

The SENTINEL will be the Magazine for Hocking county people and its columns will be as rich in literature, local in character, as may be found in the proudest gift edged publications in the country.

In addition to the contributions of our home writers, the SENTINEL will favor its readers with articles from—

Col. W. A. Taylor, perhaps the best informed man on State Politics in the country.

Col. S. K. Donavin, the well known Journalist, who has the largest personal acquaintance with noted public men of the past and present generations of any man living, will discuss national questions, and give personal recollections and character sketches of men who have been foremost in the affairs of the nation.

Miss Ethel Patterson Wright, of Washington City, one of the most accomplished lady journalists of the Metropolitan Press, a Logansite by birth and early education, will furnish us interesting Washington City correspondence.

The SENTINEL will not disgust its readers with recitals of horrible crimes, nor petty scandals. Its advertisements will be of Legitimate and Honorable Business, and no frauds nor speculations, nor vile nostrums will have a presentment in its columns.

The Fighting McCooks.

Major General Alexander McDowell McCook, who today is retired from active service in the army on account of reaching the age limit, is the last of a famous line of soldiers. In all the family trees of the United States it is to be doubted if there has been such a strain of military men as the McCooks. The record this family established is so remarkable that it is well worthy of brief repetition. The fathers of the "fighting McCooks" were Daniel and John, both of whom were born in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, and educated at the famous old Jefferson college. Daniel was born July 20, 1795, and John February 21, 1806. From these came many sons, who were separated by common consent into the "tribe of Dan" and the "tribe of John."

The sons of Daniel were in the order of their ages George W., Robert L., Alexander McD., Daniel, Edwin S., Charles M., and John J. All of these save the first who first saw light at Canonsburg, were born in Ohio. The life story of the family is like a romance. The father, although 63 years of age, offered his services to the government at the beginning of the Civil War, and was commissioned as a paymaster. He was killed near Bullington's Island, Ohio, while opposing the raid of General John Morgan. His oldest son, George W., who was a law partner of Edwin M. Stanton, served in the Mexican war, and was one of the first four brigadier generals selected by Governor Dennison. His shattered constitution, induced by the Mexican campaign, prevented his active participation in the war, but he organized several Ohio regiments. In 1871 he was the Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, and previously served as attorney general.

Robert Latimer, the second son, was also a lawyer during peace, but when war time came he organized the Ninth Ohio regiment. He was made a brigadier general in March, 1862, but was killed by Confederate guerrillas near Salem, Ala., in August of the same year. The third son, Alexander McDowell, who retired from the army after 43 years of service, which he ends with the rank of major general, was a soldier from his youth, and his record has been a brilliant one in many respects. Daniel, the fourth son, was another lawyer, his field of work having been in Kansas, where he practiced with Tecumseh Sherman and Thomas Ewing. When the war began all three of the lawyers joined the army. Daniel McCook died a brigadier general, to which grade he was raised after the assault upon the Confederate works at Keenesaw mountain, where he received his death wound. Edwin Stanton, the fifth son, began as a naval cadet, but speedily became a naval officer, and emerged from the war with the brevet rank of brigadier general and major general of volunteers. While acting governor of Dakota and presiding over a public meeting in Yankton he was shot by a man in the audience. Charles Morris, the sixth son, entered the war as a private while yet a boy and was killed at the battle of Bull Run. John James, the seventh and last son, enlisted in the Sixth Ohio cavalry when sixteen years old, and emerged from the war a colonel. He is now living in New York City, where he is a successful and honored man. This is the record of the "tribe of Dan." The father and seven sons were soldiers, and of the eight four were killed in battle, five were generals, one was a colonel, one a private and the father died a major.

The "tribe of John" was hardly less distinguished. The father was a volunteer surgeon, and died at headquarters in Washington D. C. Edward Moody, his oldest son, became a major general of volunteers and was minister to Hawaii and twice governor of Colorado; Anson George also became a general, being brevetted a brigadier, and afterward had a distinguished political career; John Henry became a clergyman, but he was a "fighting parson," serving as a lieutenant and afterward as a chaplain; Roderick Sheldon was a distinguished naval officer, whose good service gave him the rank of commander; John James, the last son, was a clergyman and also a soldier, like his brother John Henry. Of this branch all but Roderick were living recently.

The record of these families furnishes a good lesson in patriotism. The McCooks have contributed not a little to American history, and the name should be deserving of all honor for all time. Fathers, mothers and sons made each a shining mark. Perhaps the only families of the present day that have been equally distinguished are those of the Fields and Shermans.

INVESTIGATION IN WOOD COUNTY.

Ottawa County News.
The ex-Auditor of Wood County is charged with receiving over $9,000 in accordance with "custom" which the law does not provide for, and $2,400 more than even "custom" warrants. This is pretty tough, particularly on that class of Republicans who pretend to believe that all dishonesty and disrepute is in the Democratic party. Wood County is reliably republican, and the Auditor and Commissioners who are implicated in this misappropriation of public money are Republicans of the rank and most partisan kind. The glory of the G. O. P. certainly is badly dimmed in this instance.

Will They Do It.

The farmers of the State are beginning to wake up to some of the wrongs done them by recent Republican Legislatures.

"Resolved, That it is our opinion," said the farmers of Coshocton county at a recent meeting, "that our Ohio Legislature in resolving to have biennial sessions, yet voting to themselves full pay, as though they sat at legislative halls, while they sit quietly at home with their wives and children, in their chimney corners are guilty of a 'salary grab' that has been nowhere exceeded, if equaled. They have thereby made a farce of legislation and justice, and deserve the condemnation and righteous indignation of the tax payers upon their heads."

The membership of this farmer's society is made up of men of all political parties, but they unanimously denounced this Republican salary grab. But what do the Republican leaders and newspapers say in answer to their protest?

So far the only reply is to ridicule these farmers as "jays" and "hay seeds" for adopting such a resolution.

But they call on all farmers, and especially all Republican farmers, to vote an endorsement of this unequal salary grab.

THE CHANGE IN COLUMBUS.

Circleville Democrat and Watchman.
Cotton H. Allen, the newly elected Democratic Mayor of Columbus, was inducted into office on the 15th inst., and has appointed William H. Williams, Director of Public Safety, and Edward B. Denmead, Director of Accounts.

"Billy" Williams, as he is familiarly called, is widely and favorably known as one of the proprietors of the American House, in Columbus. His geniality and pleasant manner of dealing with people has made him universally popular. He was Steward of the Insane Asylum at Columbus during the administration of Governor Campbell, and for the year past has filled the position of Director of Accounts under the city government, by appointment of Mayor Karb. He was chairman of the committee which managed the late successful campaign in the city.

Edward B. Denmead, the new Director of Accounts, or City Auditor, is a prominent business man, who has been eminently successful. He is the manager of the Columbus Transfer Company. He never before held an official position.

JUST A MOMENT, PLEASE.

The progressive and aggressive Railway in the line of Interchangeable Mileage is the "Ohio Central." Among the first to issue this book it has always been the leader. It now publishes 67 distinct systems of transportation. Separated into Divisional Lines, as is done by many others, it has 123 TRANSPORTION LINES represented. A full list will be mailed upon application to any Agent of the Ohio Central Lines.

A GRAND ENTERTAINMENT.

Given At Logan, O. By the Band Boys of That City.

Columbus Call.

On Thursday evening last the Logan Band gave an entertainment in the beautiful city of Logan to a packed house. The programme consisted of two parts, the first being a farce comedy entitled "Fifty-five Minutes Late" and the second a series of specialties by young men of the town. The comedy was played with a fine degree of excellence, the audience frequently applauding so that the actors could not go on with their parts. The specialties were equal to any seen on the professional stage, especially the slack wire work of Prof. C. Suiter and the singing of character songs of Miss Bertha Nixon. The programme of part two was as follows: How Down on the Levee, by the band; Slack wire, Prof. C. Suiter; Clog Solo, Montgomery and Huston; Walt Mat. Postman, Miss Bertha Nixon; Traveling Musicians, Yeat and Freisner;
